

Spring has finally come! Los Angeles' winters are always very warm, so I thought that this winter was very cold. But, some teachers told me that this winter was actually very warm. Anyway, I am happy that spring is here!

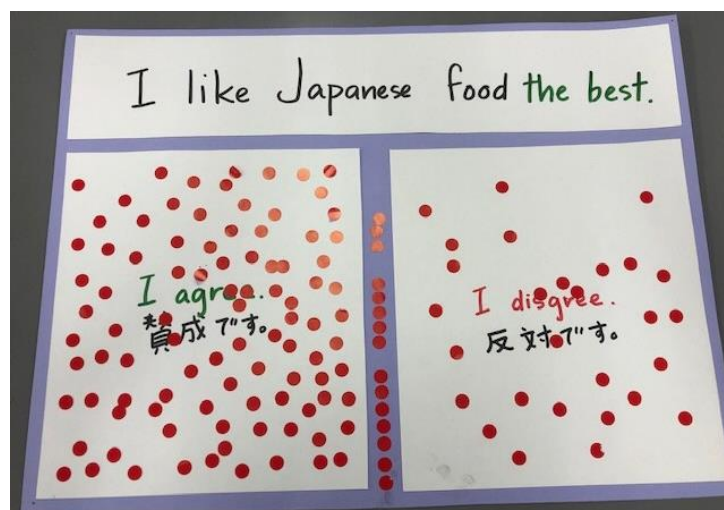

This month has had many events. We had a farewell party for the third years. The student council, first-year students, and second-year students prepared songs, dance, and skits for the third years. It was fun watching the students seriously prepare for the farewell party. I enjoyed seeing the different performances they made.

The farewell party was very fun! Even when the students made mistakes, their mistakes were very endearing and cute. The first-years used panels to write messages to the third years, but a few of them messed up. It was very cute and funny when all the panels were black except for one pink panel. The second-years made a play based on "君の縄." It was very funny, and the dances and songs were impressive! The third-year teachers also prepared a skit for the students, and it was very funny seeing the teachers pretend to be students. The third-year teachers' messages to the students were lovely.

Graduation came too quickly. It was lovely seeing all of the third years graduate, but I will miss them very much. I hope I can see them again one day. I cried during graduation, and some first-year students and second-year students teased me for crying. I'm not sure how they knew that I cried.

The school is very quiet without the third years. I'm happy that they are starting a new part of their lives, but I feel a little lonely without them. The other students are very energetic, so I will get used to life without the third-year students.

It is the end of the month, and it is time for some teachers to leave as well. I feel lonely because they are leaving. On the day of the farewell ceremony, I lost my shoes. I spent about 30 minutes looking for them, and I was very confused. In fact, one of the teachers gave me his shoe locker, and he put my shoes in his old shoe locker! When I realized what happened, I laughed so much. Thank you so much the teachers who are leaving! Thank you for making my time at Konan easy and fun. Good luck, and I hope you have a bright and happy future.
